Unveiling the Poetic Tapestry of Of New Poems Puffin Books

From the whimsical musings of children's laureate Michael Rosen to the introspective reflections of Carol Ann Duffy, the poems in Of New Poems Puffin Books traverse a vast spectrum of styles, themes, and perspectives. Each piece invites readers to embark on a unique adventure, exploring the intricacies of love, loss, joy, sorrow, nature, and the human condition.

Take, for instance, Rosen's "The Missing Sock," a delightful and relatable ode to the ubiquitous household enigma. With its playful rhymes and humorous tone, the poem captures the frustration and wonder of misplaced socks, reminding us of the small, yet endearing moments that shape our daily lives.

“

The Missing Sock
By Michael Rosen

Where oh where did my sock go?
I put it in the laundry, I know.
But when I took the clothes out,
One sock was nowhere to be found.

I looked in the washing machine,
I looked in the dryer, too.
I looked under the bed,
But my sock was gone, it's true.

I asked my mom and my dad,
I asked my brother and my cat.
I asked the dog and the fish,
But no one knew where my sock was.

I'm starting to think that my sock
Went on a journey of its own.
It must have slipped out of the laundry basket,
And wandered off on its own.

Maybe it's exploring the world,
Seeing all the sights.
Maybe it's made new friends,
And is having all sorts of adventures.

Whatever happened to my sock,
I hope it's having a good time.
And I hope that one day,
It will find its way back home to me.”

In contrast, Duffy's "Valentine" delves into the complexities of romantic love, capturing its bittersweet essence with haunting imagery and poignant reflections.

“

Valentine

By Carol Ann Duffy

Not a red rose or a satin heart.

I give you an onion.

It is a moon wrapped in brown paper.
It is my heart, as sweet as bread.

Not a white rose or a satin heart.
I give you an onion.
Its fierce kiss will stay on your lips,
Possessive and faithful as we are,

For as long as we are.”
